SON OF BOER GENERAL TO WED ARTIST MODEL

G. C. Snyman and Miss Ethel F. Hutchings Get Marriage License

Gerhardus Cornelius Snyman, a mining engineer, resident of the Art Club of Philadelphia, and for three years a colonel in the Boer war, today obtained a marriage license to wed Ethel Frances Hutchings, an artist's model, of 1727 North Forty-second street.

Snyman is the son of General William Snyman, famous Boer general, who died at the Art Club a year ago. During the Boer war the British Government placed a prize of $25,000 on the head of General Snyman. Father and son fought side by side for the cause of the Boers.

Snyman is thirty-three years old, while Miss Hutchings is twenty-three. She is the daughter of Mrs. Frances Raushing, 1727 North Forty-second street. During the last five years Miss Hutchings has posed for noted sculptors and painters in this city and New York.

Several months ago she created a sensation in Philadelphia by wearing a fur coat at a clothing exhibition which was reported to have cost $25,000. Miss Hutchings said today that the date of the wedding has not been set.

"On account of the death of Mr. Snyman's father," she said, "there will not be a big wedding. It will be a very quiet affair."

MURDERER MUST DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Iraca, Alias Rosso, Who Escaped Jail and Was Recaptured, Sentenced

MT. HOLLY, N. J., April 24. Giovanni Iraca, alias Giuseppe Rosso, the convicted murderer of Henry D. Rider, who escaped from the county jail here last Friday, and who was recaptured less than three hours later, was sentenced today by Justice Kallisch to be electrocuted at Trenton during the week of June 11. Iraca said nothing and was apparently unmoved by the sentence. He was taken to Trenton immediately.

When Justice Kallisch charged the Grand Jury at the opening of the April court today he referred to Iraca's escape and said that so far as the case had been reported to him it appeared that the escape was due to negligence, and if such a condition was found to have existed the person in charge of the prison at the time was indictable for misdemeanor. He said that the law is very strict on the subject, and if the fact is established that the escape would not have occurred if ordinary or even extraordinary care had been used, the person in charge is liable to indictment. The Court told the Grand Jury that leaving jail doors unlocked was a most serious matter.

The charge has caused much talk in official circles, it being almost certain that some one will be indicted.

WOMEN FOES OF FLIES INSPECT CITY STABLES

Volunteers of Co-operative Extermination Committee Have Chief McCrudden's Help

For the first time in the history of the Department of Health volunteer women inspectors made an investigating tour today of stables in all the forty-eight city wards. This is the first move in a city-wide campaign directed by the co-operative committee for fly extermination, which organized recently in the Chamber of Commerce.

The women inspectors are working under the direction of Albert Cross, head of the committee for the supervision of stables. They will turn in their reports daily to Chief McCrudden, of the Division of Housing and Sanitation.

Chief McCrudden called a special meeting of the women before they went out and promised that uniformed inspectors should accompany them in the future to any stables whose owners proved hostile.

"You'll meet some pretty ugly customers, for you haven't undertaken an easy job," Chief McCrudden told the women. "But diplomacy is bound to win in the end, and you needn't leave any stable without having inspected it. In view of the present labor shortage, it won't do to be overcritical of the owner's working force, for he's probably getting as much help as he's able to hire."

The committee believes that when the stables are under systematic supervision the breeding places of 98 per cent of flies will be abolished.

"Fly Week" originally was to have been launched in advance of the baby welfare campaign in May, but it has been decided to carry on the two crusades simultaneously.

The introductory feature of "Fly Week" will be a parade in the lower section of inspectors will march in costume and carry up-to-date apparatus for fighting flies.

DESPONDENT, GETS AID BY ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

The attempt at suicide of Abraham Dinerman late last night resulted in his being befriended and receiving $15 and a new suit of clothes.

The youth is eighteen years old and came to this city from New York two days ago. He was unable to find work, walked the streets until he became despondent and then threw himself in front of the automobile of Clarence H. Vanderbeck, of Cynwyd, a yarn dealer.

Vanderbeck managed to stop his car in time. Dinerman was taken first to the Jefferson Hospital, then to the Fifteenth and Locust streets police station. He had a hearing this morning before Magistrate Rooney. Vanderbeck suggested that the boy be sent to the Philadelphia Hospital for observation. Then he gave the money and clothing to him.

VANDERBILT AUTOMOBILE SAVES MAN FROM DEATH

ATLANTIC CITY, April 24.—But for the timely arrival of the automobile of Mrs. Alfred Guyenne Vanderbilt, of New York, Fred Savage, a mechanic, of Wading River, N. J., probably would have bled to death for lack of medical attention.

Savage was returning from work on a bicycle when he was run down while between Mullica Hill and New Gretna by an automobile. He was bleeding profusely when the driver started with him for a twenty-mile run to the City Hospital here. Two miles from Absecon a tire burst, leaving the driver helpless. Just at that time the Vanderbilt machine, en route here from New York to get its owner, drove in sight, with George Beraudo at the wheel. A few words explained the situation. Then Savage was transferred to the Vanderbilt car and rushed the remaining ten miles to the hospital here.

Surgeons found five arteries in Savage's throat had been severed and nineteen stitches were required to close the gash. They said a very short delay might have been fatal.
